Mail from Alan Turner - UK

Alan Turner (UK) is very quick with his reply. He returns two stampsheets and was very happy with the other things I sent him. Alan uses a lot of Rubberstamps as you can see. He has been doing that for years.

Bunny Shirt

On Ebay I was looking for Ray Johnson related items. Normally I trace something by Rain Rien then. To my surprise I found an offer for this T-Shirt. Seems they actually sell a few of them throug www.ebay.com (just look for Ray Johnson). Mail-Art is getting commercialized. Funny.

Since I started this blog this is the 1096th posting. Quite a lot over the years. I have documented all postings in .PDF files which you can find at:

<http://www.iuoma.org/iuomablogarchive.html>

The archives are there to make sure all texts and imgs are framed in time. A blog has all images from everywhere, so it can loose data easily.

Andreas Hofer Stamp from Socks Land

For Roland's: <http://andreas-hofer.blogspot.com/> he asks for postcards. Since mail-artists sometimes 'bend the rules' I designed this postage-stamp for him and printed a stampsheet out of it. I'll send it to him this evening. Hope he likes it. It is based on the traditional postage-stamp that is found on the wikipedia-site he links to on his blog....

To give him a different problem: The stamp is made for the special Land that Roland created "Socks Land. How else could I describe his blog located at: <http://socks-stockings.blogspot.com/>

 Ruud Janssen - IUOMA & TAM
 Authority: 13

Seems that my blogs are picked up nicely in the Technorati listings. Two of them even got Authority 13. Not bad.

Mail from Solamiti - Italy

Mail from Luigino Solomito, Italy. He sent me this little CD. It is supposed to contain mail-art, but I must confess I am a bit confused. Is the CD the mail-art or the digital content? I will have a look at the digital content soon. The little CD doesn't fit that easily in the drive of this laptop...

New Interview?

After the last published mail-interview I am trying to do a new one. A difficult task because the person I am trying to interview rather plays then gives answers. The last postings show that he plays on Ebay with his art. Want to see what I have discovered so far? You can see and actively play along at: <http://groups.yahoo.com/group/rainrien/>
